WELCOME TO PIERSLAND HOUSE

Beautifully landscaped gardens and an intriguing mix of contemporary styling and traditional design make Piersland House Hotel a unique and delightful setting for the perfect wedding.

Formerly known as "Piersland Lodge" the hotel was built in 1899 by renowned Scottish architect William Leiper as the home for Sir Alexander Walker, grandson of Johnnie Walker, founder of the Scottish whisky firm.

The happiest and most memorable day of your life should be spent somewhere special and Piersland House Hotel is the ideal venue for a truly romantic wedding.

Piersland House Hotel is set in 2 acres of beautiful, landscaped gardens, making this tranquil setting the perfect location for your wedding photographs.

You and your guests will dine in our banqueting room which has retained its original period features in keeping with the design of the building, making it a unique venue for a memorable day.

Delivering beautiful weddings for over 25 years Piersland House Hotel prides itself on quality of service and attention to detail – ensuring your wedding day runs smoothly, leaving you free to enjoy the most special day of your life.
